The best way to get good at storytelling is to actually practice writing them daily.

If you're not already a member of the free Facebook groups, 30 Day Storytelling Challenge or Flash Fiction Factory, definitely sign up. We hold them throughout the year, and they're excellent places to get good in a safe setting.

But you don't have to wait for the next group to begin because I've got you covered right here. You can do your own 30 Day Challenge whenever you like. And I've got 30 random photos to get you started. Here's how it works:

Choose your start date and your end date. Then mark them on the calendar. It helps when you can visually see your goal. The daily photos begin after this section.

Your mission is to write a related SHORT story (100-200 words) about the daily picture.

I recommend you set a timer for 15 minutes so you don't get stuck. If you happen to miss a day, just double up the next day.

When you're done, you'll have 30 stories you can use in emails, social media, sales letters...you name it! People who've participated in the Challenge have reported their writing is much faster and their confidence has increased in their ability to tell a selling story. You can't do this wrong. Just make the commitment!

SAMPLE STORY - SHEEP

Here's the thing about sheep...

They aren't the brightest animals on the planet. So they'll blindly follow each other, even into danger.

Business owners can act like sheep too. If they see enough people doing something, they think they should do it too...even if it doesn't suit their business model.

Having trouble falling asleep and staying asleep because your head is spinning with all the things you need to get done?

I've arranged for this small herd of sheep to give you a hand.

Each night when you get all snuggly in your bed, these sheep will take turns jumping over your bed so you can count them. They'll stick around for as long you need. When you slip into a deep, sweet sleep, they'll raid your refrigerator. Don't worry though....just R.E.L.A.X. and S.L.E.E.P...

YOUR 30 Day Storytelling Challenge Begins Now...

The next 60 pages have everything you need...except the creativity. That's your job! You'll see a picture on a page. Then on the following page is that same picture much smaller with space for you to write your story. You can print this out and write by hand or create your own document. It's up to you.

Remember the idea is just to keep practicing. No need to put a lot of time or thought into this yet. Your storytelling muscles will be getting pumped up before you know it. Set your timer for 15 minutes so you don't get stuck. HAVE FUN!

Happy writing!

Meet Lorrie

Lorrie Morgan is considered an industry trailblazer in the world of emotional response copywriting & marketing.

She founded her first company Red Hot Copy in 1999 so she could work anywhere, raise her family, and make a good living.

After studying closely with legends Dan Kennedy, John Carlton, and Gary Halbert, she takes established marketing formulas and adds her own conversational rapport to the mix for proven increases in conversions.

Lorrie and her businesses have been featured in Dan Kennedy's Gold Membership, Copy Chief, AWAI (American Writers & Artists Institute), John Carlton's SWS (Simple Writing System), Mal Emery's Business School in Australia, Ladies Who Launch, Office Depot, NAWBO (National Association for Women Business Owners), Mark Victor Hansen's Mega Events and more.

Lorrie has appeared in many print publications such as Armand Morin's Traces, Ali Brown's Ali, Savvy Business Women's Magazine, Parenting, Dan Kennedy's Gold & Platinum Newsletters plus her own previous newsletter, Hot Off the Presses.

She is regularly invited to John Carlton's Masterminds as the go-to voice for selling to women. In addition to running her own podcast, Red Hot Factor, Lorrie is frequently interviewed on other popular podcasts in a variety of industries.

Lorrie's copywriting products have won awards for publishing excellence. She was also nominated for outstanding business contributions by a woman for the Los Angeles Business Journal Awards, The Stevie Awards and others.

Today she lives in Arizona on a 13-acre horse ranch with her partner. When she's not working on copy or is mentoring other business owners, she's usually living out my Big Valley fantasies by riding her horse, feeding chickens, or shooting competitively.
